How to get to Tower Hill House from Melbourne (Westgate Bridge): via Lorne, Apollo Bay, Port Campbell and Warrnambool - (Great Ocean Road)…. 7 hours, at least, with stops.

This is a fantastic day drive on The Great Ocean Road and so it would be best to leave from Melbourne as early as possible.

From Westgate Bridge follow the Princes Highway (M1) past Geelong - and then follow the signs for 'The Great Ocean Road and Angelsea'. Stay on The Great Ocean Road through Lorne to Apollo Bay. (Melbourne to To Apollo Bay is about 3.5 hours). After lunch... continue on past The 12 Apostles to Port Campbell. You then join The Princes Highway (A1) just before Warrnambool. (It will take you about 50 minutes from Port Campbell to THH).
So, continue on through Warrnambool (A1) towards Port Fairy… many traffic lights.

A few kms out of Warrnambool you come to a dual track overtaking lane, and then immediately after that, a 2 km single track straight. At the end of this straight (known locally as 'the mad mile'!), you will see on your left several information signs, pointing to the right and for Koroit. One of those signs reads TOWER HILL HOUSE.

Therefore (at Lakeview road) turn right. After 50 metres you'll see another pointer sign for Tower Hill House. So then turn left at Bimberdong lane, where you will see the Tower Hill House signage.

Drive up 250 metres to the end of the lane, and turn sharp left as you come in through the gate. Follow the track round and park on the west side of the house, in front of the wood pile - The front door will be unlocked and the key hanging inside. Looking forward to meeting you! Richard.
